DANCES

Mr. and Mrs. Grant R. McCullough entertained a party of about forty young folk informally at dancing last evening in the Dallas apartments.

Mrs. Sterling and Pauline Davis of Pawnee and Mr. Chester Mays of Kinsley, Kan. Intermission was taken at 10:30 for the serving of a supper.

The prettiest and most novel entertainment of the season was the formal dance given at the Country club on Friday evening by members of the City "Pau-Hallers" association. The path to the clubhouse from the main line and the automobile driveway was strung overhead with Japanese lanterns, and the veranda of the clubhouse were lighted with smaller lanterns of similar design. In the ballroom the lights were hooded with small Japanese lanterns, and open parades and incense burners added to the attractiveness of the scene. The men's programs were attached to artificial stars, which opened up to form Japanese fans, and the program for the girls were suspended from tiny open garlands. The first extra was a "Trot" dance, in which the lights were turned out, and the girls were lighted with sticks in their hair. It was a favor dance, with large yellow chrysanthemums at hand. In the deep dusk of the fireplace a punch table was placed under a bower of cherry blossoms and cherry punch was served during the evening, while in the intermission a two-course supper was served—Muskegon Phoenix.

Among the guests in attendance from Tulsa were Misses Miriam Murphy, Jessie Cremins, Ruth Tynes, Pauline McFarlin, and Mr. Floyd Lewis.

CARD COMPANIES

Mrs. Ralph V. Smith's courtesy to Madeline Gray, Timmon, Carlin, Satterly, Carter and Morris of Okla. who are the Misses Elizabeth and Ruby McNeill's house guests, was a beautiful morning reception company on Friday.

American beauty roses decorated the dining room, while sweet peas were used in floral adornment of the den and gladioli in the dining room. Six tables of auction bridge were played, the favor for high score among the skilful players, to Mrs. Henry Thompson and Mrs. Lyman Gray, and to Mrs. C. S. Bruce of the matrons, invited to meet members of the house party. A delicious luncheon was served on the card tables following the game, with the Misses Ethel Mando and Thelma Smith assisting their mother.

The Misses Elizabeth and Ruby McNeill entertained with a delightful four-table auction on Friday to make informal presentation of their house party guests. Madeline Lyman Gray, Henry Thompson, Harry Carlin, Claude Satterly, Melville Carter and Don Morris of Guthrie. A position of garden flowers decorated quite attractively the card room in which these were gathered. The visitors and a small group of friends invited to play in their honor. The games, which were a gift of fingers and a theater bag, were won by Mrs. Henry Thompson of Guthrie and Miss Ethel Mando Smith. Following the playing of luncheon Mrs. Bert Fisher, who has only recently removed to Tulsa from Okemah, gave an interpretation of the death scene of Cleopatra. She was assisted with piano accompaniment by Miss Smith, who has just been graduated from the music department of Oklahoma university.

Miss Mary Hill had the girls of the Wheel club as her guests for a pretty morning auction party yesterday, there being members for two tables in attendance. Miss Ruth Sokatz played a substitute hand. High score prize was a box of handkerchiefs. The games were followed by a luncheon.

LUNCHEONS

Mrs. Lucien L. Morrison, 1512 South Denver avenue, paid a charming compliment to the hostess of the Misses Elizabeth and Ruby McNeill yesterday afternoon in the luncheon and auction bridge with which she entertained a company of ten matrons and young women. The luncheon table was attractive in a color note of green and white, expressed in the centerpiece of cape jasmine, white sweet peas and sprays of green which filled one large and three smaller crystal cases. Flavors of corsage bouquets ripened at the guests' places. The afternoon was spent in playing auction with a gift of lingerie as the high score. Madeline Lyman Gray, Henry Thompson, Harry Carlin, Claude Satterly, Melville Carter and Don Morris of Guthrie were the group of matrons honored.

Mrs. Anthony O'Donnell entertained with a small luncheon yesterday afternoon at Hotel Tulsa, in compliment to Mrs. W. G. Selby of Marietta, Ohio, and Mrs. James R. Cule of Tulsa, W. A. Baskley of Ardmore, and Mrs. A. W. Leonard of Gainesville, Texas.

DINNERS

Dr. and Mrs. Fred S. Clinton entertained with a beautiful dinner party Friday evening in special compliment to Mrs. James R. Cule's sisters, Mrs. W. A. Baskley of Ardmore, and Mrs. A. W. Leonard of Gainesville, Texas, and Mrs. Selma of Kansas City, guests of the Misses Anna and Carolyn McElroy.

The dinner table was adorned florally in a great cluster of varicolored roses and sweet peas from the gardens of Clinton Ingleside and the place cards were done in floral design. After dinner there was music by Madeline Cole, Kasey and Leonard, Miss Thelma Stansbury and the hostess, and a series of contests, in which Mrs. J. H. McElroy and Mrs. Lora R. Stansbury received the favors.
